The Federal Direct PLUS Loan Program provides loans to parents of college students who are considered “dependent” to assist with educationally related expenses. Parent PLUS loans are non-need-based loans, and the parent is responsible for all interest that accrues from the time the loan is disbursed. This federal loan is approved or denied based on the applicants’ credit.

There are limits to the amount a parent can borrow to assist a student with college related costs. A parent can borrow the student’s Cost of Attendance minus any financial aid (including student loans) awarded to the student. We strongly suggest that you only borrow the amount your student truly needs as the PLUS loan is a debt that must be repaid.

To apply:

- Step 1: Complete the credit application by using this link: www.nwc.edu/plus. If the PLUS credit application is denied, please contact the Financial Aid & Scholarships Office for possible options.
- Step 2: Complete an electronic Master Promissory Note (eMPN) by using this link: www.nwc.edu/plus.
- Step 3: Indicate the student’s enrollment period and status.
